BI SICAV - Emerging Markets Corporate Debt, Class I (EUR), a sub-fund of BI SICAV

ISIN code: LU0253262702

Management Company: Lemanik Asset Management S.A.

Objectives and Investment Policy

BI SICAV - Emerging Markets Corporate Debt aims to achieve a long term return that outperforms the return of an index incorporating emerging markets bonds, also known as the benchmark. The current benchmark is JP Morgan Corporate Emerging Markets Bond Index Broad Diversified (hedged to EUR).

The benchmark is used as a proxy for the broader market within the target asset class for performance comparison purposes. The sub-fund employs an active security selection process and the investments may deviate substantially from the benchmark.

The sub-fund invests at least two thirds of its assets in corporate debt of emerging markets debt issuers in Latin America, Central- or Eastern Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Asia exclusive Japan. The sub-fund can also invest in securities issued by sovereign issuers or the local authorities as well as financial and corporate issuers that have the majority of their activities in an emerging market country.

Emerging markets bonds are typically characterized by payment of higher interest compared to for example German government bonds due to a higher credit risk.

The majority of bond issuers have received a credit rating. The group of issuers with a good credit rating starts at BBB-, while AAA is the best credit rating. The lowest rating is D, which is equal to a credit default. The bonds of this sub-fund are required to have a credit rating of minimum CC. However, 20 % of the sub-fund's assets can be invested in bonds without any credit rating and 5 % can be invested in downgraded bonds with a credit rating below CC.

Positions in bonds denominated in other currencies than the sub-fund base currency may not exceed 30 % of portfolio value.

Financial derivative instruments may be used for hedging purposes and as part of the investment strategy. A financial derivative instrument is a financial contract the value of which depends on the market price of a reference item. The sub-fund's investments made in assets other than the base currency may be hedged into the base currency. The aim is to hedge the currency exposure of the base currency into the reference currency of the share class.

Recommendation: The sub-fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money within a period of 3 years.

The share class is entitled to distribute dividends in the event payment of a dividend is being declared. In general, investors can subscribe or redeem shares of the sub-fund on any bank business day in Luxembourg.

The sub-fund is denominated in USD. Investments in this share class settle in EUR.

Risk and Reward Profile

The risk and reward indicator illustrates the relationship between the risk and return potential. The share class is placed in category 4 based on the fluctuations in return over the past 5 years. Large fluctuations equal higher risk and placement in the right side of the indicator. Small fluctuations imply lower risk and placement in the left side of the indicator. Category 1, however, does not mean that the investment is risk free.

Historical data used in the indicator, is not necessarily a reliable indicator of the future risk profile, which is why the placement is subject to change over time. The categorization does not take the immediate effect of sudden fluctuations in interest rates and currencies, political interventions, natural disasters or similar incidents into account.

Apart from the fluctuations in return illustrated in the indicator, the following risks are materially relevant in relation to the investments in corporate debt in the emerging markets:

- 1) Credit risk: The risk of an issuer's inability to meet principal and interest payments on the obligations.
- 2) Liquidity risk: The risk that some assets of the sub-fund can be sold below their valuation as a result of insufficient liquidity in the market.
- 3) Counterparty risk: A counterparty may fail to meet its obligations to the sub-fund.
- 4) Implications associated with the use of financial derivative instruments: The use of financial derivative instruments may or may not achieve its intended objective and may involve additional risks inherent to these instruments and techniques.

For more information on the risks the sub-fund is exposed to, please refer to the section "Risk Factors" of the Prospectus.
